

Surviving Valentine's Day

Paige Parks

1 Don't be afraid to ask- When on the hunt for a stellar Valentine's date, it is important not to stray from tradition. If you want a date, actually ask them. Don't go full 'Prom-posal' style, but a thoughtful gesture will suffice. Even when dating, and a Valentine's date is inferred, ask them.

2 Be funny- The popular (yet slightly inappropriate) Twitter Valentines are perfect for the jokester in all of us.

3 Food is a must- As any parody Twitter account will tell you, food is the way to a girl's (and obviously a boy's) heart...

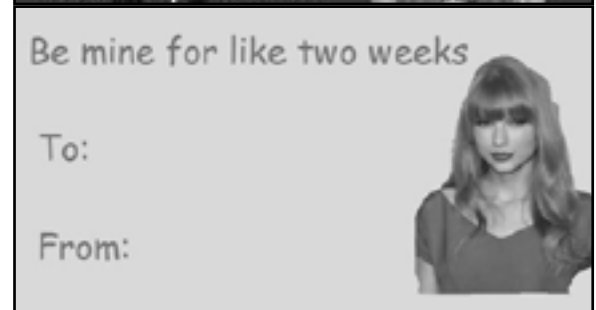

Review of Superbowl Commercials

Miranda Campbell

1 Scarlett Johansson's commercial that redefines soda was one that will not easily be forgotten. With her sassy appearance and bold looks, I'm certain she changed many minds on the idea of creating your own soda. Perhaps this new fad will catch on with her familiar face at the forefront of the campaign.

2 The Volkswagen was my favorite car commercial of the bunch. "When a Volkswagen reaches 100,000 miles, a German engineer gets his wings". Genius. The scene where there are giant wings bursting from engineer's backs was perfect.

3 The Go Daddy commercial was horrifying. A flock of buff and meaty people swarming a tanning salon is a nightmare. It made for a great commercial, though. I definitely paid attention. Even if I was distracted by my disgust...

Project Grad is selling candy, senior gear and coin jewelry Jan. 10-14 in the Cafeteria. Goodies will be delivered Friday.

Did you know?

You can find the rest of these stories, pictures and more online at www.cphswolfpack.org

Add "Journalism Advanced: Newspaper" to your schedule to become a part of the staff that brings you the semester newspaper and monthly Toilet Times.

Answer to last month's riddle (Name four days of the week that start with the letter T.):
Tuesday, Thursday, Today, Tomorrow

