Basketball dribbles into new season

by Avery Deen

The CP girls and boys basketball teams both went far last season, with the boys making it to the state semifinals and the girls making it to the third round of play-offs. This year both teams hope to go farther, and the girls have changed their approach to better fit the many new team members and play to the strengths of the new team, according to senior small forward for the varsity team, Jennifer Stallings.

"We've had to change a lot this season because a lot of the seniors that graduated were really key to the system we were running," Stallings said... (cont. at cphswolfpack.org)

Band takes State title

by Anjali Sundaram

The silence echoes through the stadium as the students rapidly head to their positions. Their hearts are pounding in their chests and their palms are sweating as they grip their instruments. The drum majors line up in front of the crowd, eyeing their peers. Finally, the drum majors raise their hands and the music begins.

In the wee hours of Nov 4, the CPHS marching band acquired another medal to add to their list of achievements... (cont. at cphswolfpack.org)

CP turkey day traditions

by Collyn Burke

From a full day of cooking turkey dinners, to racing through Best Buy looking for the greatest deals, Thanksgiving is a time full of fun traditions. Whether it's the typical, or the unusual, most every family has their own set of unique traditions to celebrate a day of thankfulness and food.

"Thanksgiving is a time to reflect on our plentiful blessings," senior Tim Ou said. "Our traditions reflect our thankfulness... (cont. at cphswolfpack.org)
